Dolman Law Group Video Essay Contest	9/30/16	12						1100	The Dolman Law Group Video Essay Contest is available to current or prospective college students. You must submit a 2-3 minute video essay (YouTube format preferred) on the following topic: "Much has been made about the potential of driverless and automated car technology in recent years, and many industry observers expect this technology to be widely available within the next decade. Technology is never perfect however, and accidents involving driverless vehicles have already occurred. Various legal issues arise when autonomous cars are involved in accidents, including determining who should be held liable for an accident. In your opinion, who should be held accountable when a driverless vehicle is involved in an accident? The owner? The manufacturer? The software developer?"
